

BATCH SCHEDULING Booklet

PART 1

About Batch Scheduling

“For every minute spent organizing, an hour is earned.”

Benjamin Franklin

WHAT IS BATCH SCHEDULING?

Batch scheduling is grouping similar tasks together and scheduling them at certain times throughout your day, week, or month. For example, grouping all your cleaning tasks together then dedicating a few hours throughout your week to ONLY doing the things on your cleaning list. Another example would be to dedicate particular parts of your day to complete all your digital tasks such as replying to emails or online shopping. How to group or batch your tasks will depend on your preferences.

WHY SHOULD I BATCH SCHEDULE?

Batch scheduling allows for you to plan tasks and then focus on completing them with your full attention. Multitasking may work in some situations, however research shows that you end up doing more work when multitasking as opposed to completing a single task or group of related tasks with your full attention. Focusing on one thing or one type of thing at a time will yield better and more accurate results.

HOW OFTEN SHOULD I BATCH SCHEDULE?

Batch scheduling can be used in any situation in which tasks need to be completed. You could do this on a daily, weekly or monthly basis. You can even batch your tasks for a certain hour. The purpose of this is not to stress you out by giving deadlines, but rather giving your to-do list a structure that sets you up for success.

Be flexible and gracious with yourself. You can never predict what a day will bring, so your tasks may not always get completed when you schedule them. I recommend batching on a weekly basis, but do what works for you!

PART 2

Components of Batch Scheduling

“A good system shortens the road to the goal.”

Orison Swett Marden

THE TWO MAIN COMPONENTS OF BATCH SCHEDULING:

1

Listing your tasks

First, make a list of all your task categories. These are completely dependent on your personal goals so they will look different for each person. Here are a few ideas of categories:

- meal prep
- groceries
- chores
- emails
- online shopping
- business tasks
- kids activities

After you've listed your categories, you can list tasks within each category. You now have batched your tasks.

Assigning times

After step 1 you can do one of two things, you can refer to your list of tasks whenever you have time to accomplish something OR you can schedule times for each category.

examples:
meal prepping- Saturdays 3-4 pm plan kids activities- Mondays 8-8:15 am respond to emails- mornings before kids wake up

This is scheduling your batches of tasks. There may be tasks that you can't find a slot for and that's ok. Just having them listed out is very helpful.

PART 3

Examples

“What it lies in our power to do, it lies in our power not to do.”

Aristotle

Here's an example of what batch categories could look like.
